Beazley adds data breach and information security underwriter in London

London, 24 January, 2017

Beazley, a pioneer in data breach response insurance, has appointed Monica Tigleanu as an underwriter focused on data breach and information security coverage for US companies out of its London headquarters. Beazley has helped clients handle over 5,000 breaches since the launch of its flagship product, Beazley Breach Response, in 2009.

Ms Tigleanu joins Beazley from AIG Europe, where she was a senior underwriter focused on cyber risk management based out of London. Prior to that, she held senior underwriting positions with AIG Canada and Travelers Canada in Toronto.

Paul Bantick, Beazley's UK focus group leader for technology, media and business services, said: "We're excited to add Monica's expertise as we continue to expand the reach of Beazley's information security coverage and dedicated BBR Services unit. Beazley's data breach insurance is the only product on the market specifically designed to give businesses access to dedicated and experienced breach response managers to manage the technical, regulatory and financial impacts of a data breach from the moment of initial notification."
