Beazley, a leading provider of specialist professional liability insurance, has appointed two new territory managers to the company's private enterprise team, which focuses on the professional liability needs of small businesses.

Robert Hoban will be responsible for private enterprise business development efforts in the Midwest region of the United States, based out of Beazley's Chicago office. Mr Hoban joins Beazley from Hiscox USA, where he was a senior underwriter for technology and cyber liability insurance.

Karilyn Wells will be responsible for private enterprise business development efforts in the Western region of the United States, based out of Beazley's Los Angeles office. Ms Wells joins Beazley from Hiscox USA, where she was a senior underwriter for management liability insurance. Previously, she held underwriting roles at Zurich, ACE and AIG.

Katie Guiou, Beazley's national head of the private enterprise business development, said: "We are delighted to have Robert and Karilyn join our team to help Beazley meet the needs of our brokers and policyholders. Beazley continues to experience tremendous demand for our bespoke professional liability solutions from small-to medium-sized businesses."
