

Critical Illness

Critical illness insurance helps people guard against the financial hardship of a serious health problem. The insurance provides lump sum payments, upon diagnosis of one of several specified catastrophic illnesses. These payments may be used to cover the costs of care or treatment, to replace lost income, or to address personal needs, such as transportation, childcare and other household expenses. (Note: Critical Illness does NOT replace health insurance. It is not tied to underlying medical expense, and pays out a benefit independently of other coverage).

Why Critical Illness?

The need for the product is widespread: According to the American Cancer Society<sup>1</sup>, anyone can develop cancer, and one in two men and one in three women are at risk in their lifetime. In addition, the American Heart Association<sup>2</sup> reports that each year an estimated 750,000 Americans will have a heart attack, and nearly 800,000 more will have a stroke.

A 2013 study<sup>1</sup> found that 2 million Americans have declared bankruptcy due to unpaid medical bills.<sup>3</sup>

Why Beazley Critical Illness?

Our Critical Illness insurance is a gap protection product, which provides a lump sum benefit to ease the financial burden that may result from a serious disease.

The benefit may be offered employer-paid, or employee-paid (voluntary), or a combination of the two. Coverage is offered on a guarantee issue basis, or with medical questions (based on responses to up to 4 questions, answered on an accept/reject basis).

We offer a robust standard plan with 10 critical conditions. There are a variety of optional benefits, including an Additional Occurrence benefit, a Recurrence benefit, a Health Screening benefit, as well as the Dependent Coverage and Portability.
