Beazley's new Excess Social Engineering Policy for the US market expands the protection available to firms that fall victim to impersonation scams by fraudsters convincing employees to wire funds to external accounts.

Beazley's new policy provides up to $5,000,000 in excess of underlying coverage of at least $250,000.

The coverage is available on a surplus lines basis only.

Coverage can follow the terms of another crime insurer's primary cover. It can also be used to boost the social engineering cover currently available under our own market-leading cyber policy, Beazley Breach Response.

We require our Fraudulent Instruction Questionnaire, or an equivalent social engineering application, to complete the underwriting process.
