

GDPR Helpline

Beazley is committed to providing Beazley Breach Response (BBR) policyholders in the UK with risk management resources around the impact of the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR).

Despite widespread publicity and the long lead to implementation, enquiries to Beazley suggest that the effects of the regulation are still not well understood. In response to this knowledge gap, Beazley has partnered with DAC Beachcroft to set up a helpline service that will enable Beazley's BBR policyholders in the UK to connect free of charge with some of the UK's foremost GDPR legal experts.

How to access the helpline?

Email GDPRhelpline@beazley.com or

Call +44 (0)33 0808 0957

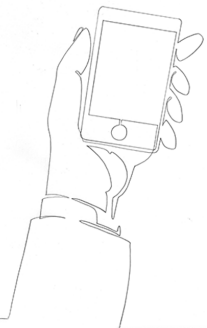

Please provide your contact details and a member of Beazley's in house breach response team, BBR services, will schedule a call with a GDPR expert at DAC Beachcroft.

Policyholders will receive up to 60 minutes of advice and guidance on what the regulation means for them and the steps they should consider taking in order to minimise the risks of non-compliance.

The types of questions from policyholders include:

- Does the GDPR apply to my company?
- Do we need to register with a supervisory authority?
- What is personal data?
- Am I a Data Controller or Data Processor?
- Does the GDPR apply to Data Processors?
- My company is looking at our data retention policies and procedures. How long is too long to keep this data?
- Does my company always need consent to process personal data?
- My company wants to use personal data for something we have not previously used the data for. What do we need to do in order to do this?
- My company just received a subject access request asking for an individual's personal data. What do we have to do, if anything, with this request?
