Beazley announces US Executive Risk Northeast and Midwest leadership

April 13, 2022

The Executive Risk team continues to grow, needs are ever-changing and Beazley's ability to best navigate our way through this very dynamic market remains a priority. As such, effective April 1st Elizabeth Cassarino and Jon Perry take lead of the Northeast and Midwest Executive Risk teams respectively.

Elizabeth joined Beazley in September 2020 from Chubb and has been a huge contributor to growth and expanded footprint over that time. Elizabeth has quickly become a trusted expert for the team and our clients as we have shifted the portfolio to one that deploys more meaningful capacity in primary and low excess attachments on programs across the country. Her drive and vision will be instrumental in continuing to build out a very significant Northeast region for Beazley.

Jon has been with Beazley since July 2020 following roles at Allied World and Travelers. Jon wasted no time entrenching himself in the region and the overall Beazley culture. He is a well-respected leader, not only internally, but with brokers and clients alike and that has been paying dividends as the Midwest region continues to grow. Jon also chairs the Diversity and Inclusion steering group for Beazley in the US and has been a very influential contributor to those efforts globally.

Jeremie Saada said "I am really excited to see the continued development of these regions under their guidance and with the terrific team we continue to build. Liz and Jon will also be joining the US Exec Risk Leadership team and will bring with them some new perspectives and ideas as we continue to undertake the objectives we have set out for ourselves; people, growth, profitability, efficiency and collaboration."
