CtrlAltBreach – Episode 2: Ransomware containment

March 10, 2023

In our series, we'll be covering what ransomware is, how it gets into a computer system, who the cybercriminals launching these cyberextortion attacks are, and how cybercriminals use the victims' own computers to encrypt their data and hold it for ransom.

A ransomware incident is often a crisis for the organization experiencing it and if not handled correctly, it could mean the end of a smaller business.

In this episode you'll learn about how to contain a ransomware incident, what should you do and what you should not do when you discover that you have a ransomware infection.
